Data Security and E-Commerce Lawyer Amy Mushahwar Joins ZwillGen PLLC

Washington, D.C., June 30, 2014 – ZwillGen has announced that Amy Mushahwar, formerly counsel at Ballard Spahr, will join ZwillGen’s Washington, D.C. office, bringing 15 years of experience on both the engineering and legal sides of technology.

Amy will add to ZwillGen’s information security and e-commerce practice by assisting clients on compliance with state and federal information security and cybersecurity laws, PCI DSS requirements, and financial and health privacy laws.

Marc Zwillinger, ZwillGen’s Founder and Managing Partner said, “With the new and innovative ways that consumers transact business online, Amy’s knowledge and experience with e-commerce and PCI will help our clients better secure their customer data and help limit their liability from doing business online.”

At ZwillGen, Amy will continue conducting online and offline privacy assessments, counseling clients on the development of integrated digital platforms, cloud computing, virtualized platforms, database APIs, and mobile technology. She will also advise on state, federal, and international privacy requirements and data protection laws.

Prior to entering the legal world, Amy operated and owned a technology consulting company where she performed network security design and implementation. Amy is a magna cum laude graduate from Catholic University of America Columbus School of Law. As to reasons for her move Amy said, “ZwillGen’s information security and privacy practices have a reputation for being the top in the country and the fact that they do such exciting work in a fun and relaxed atmosphere made this an obvious move for me.”
